

Blood Drive

Growing up, Art Nienhuis' father always donated blood. When Nienhuis was old enough, he followed his father's example and started donating at his high school. But he never expected he'd be the one in need. Nienhuis battled Hodgkin's Lymphoma twice. He needed multiple platelet transfusions. He has nothing but gratitude for the blood donors who helped to save his life. "Donors are heroes," Nienhuis said. "I'm so grateful for blood donors who help patients like me."
